THE CITY COAL MEN

WANT TRANSIENT DEALERS TAXED

Petition Presented to the City Council to Prevent Outsiders Selling Coal in the City.

The first item of business after the reading of the minutes, at last night's council meeting, was a petition signed by the city coal dealers asking that a by-law be passed putting a licence fee on dealers in the city who do not keep a mine in operation all the year around and maintain a city office throughout the year.

The license was presented by Mr. Ewing who addressed the council in behalf of the petitioners. The argument advanced in favor of granting the license was that a considerable proportion of the dealer's cost was the expense of transporting the coal from the mine to the city, that when hauling is easy and profits comparatively large a number of outsiders bring coal into the city and sell it thus cutting into the business of the established dealer, but when spring opens and the season of difficult transportation and small profits is at hand the transient dealer drops out the game and leaves the regular coal merchant to supply the city. To provide for this the city dealer had to construct large storage sheds which could be filled in winter.

This condition could not be continued and the coalmen would have either to go out of business or raise the price of coal at some seasons of the year. The purpose of the bylaw was to put the coal men under the same protection as that enjoyed by other merchants. It was held that to do so would not be granting a monopoly as anyone could go into the business at any time and providing he complied with the bylaw would not have to pay a license.

Ald. McLeod thought the council should have some guarantee from the coal men that the monopoly it granted would not be worked to the detriment of the consumer. Several of the dealers present expressed a willingness to give a guarantee as to price.

Ald. Boyle pointed out that the council had the power under the charter to fix the price at which commodities could be sold in the city. Mr. Ewing thought the city would have some trouble in procuring these if the council exercised the right too freely.

R. May pointed out that this power of the council was all the guarantee needed. If the coalmen put up the price the council could go after them.

A. E. May suggested, on being asked, that a fee of $300 would be satisfactory to the dealers.

Ald. Boyle doubted the power of the council to pass the required legislation.

The petition was referred to the License and Police committee to report after having obtained the solicitor's advice as to the council's jurisdiction in the case.

AN EDMONTON MAN
IN OLD ENGLAND

Pembroke College, Oxford
January 25th, 1905.

Editor Bulletin:—

Since of all those who call Edmonton their home I believe I am the pioneer—in these halls of learning that border on the Isis, I may claim the explorer's privilege of relating my adventures and impressions. To this end I crave the use of your columns although I am aware that in this growing time for the Northwest they are occupied with a subject of greater interest such as railways and rumormongers of railways, ecclesiastical schisms, provincial autonomy and the glorious future of Edmonton. You may accept it as a fact Mr. Editor, that I am still a Canadian, for had I become an Englishman I would have been writing to 'The Times' instead of to you. Other pens than mine must attempt to celebrate the praises of old Oxford, the glories of her past and her hopes for the future, the beauties of her landscapes and buildings, and the excellencies of her educational system, other wits than mine must try to analyze the genial influences of the place and explain the marvelous hold Oxford has upon her sons. My sole intention is to set down my impressions of the little bit of England that I have seen as yet, and of student life here. Just a word about the Rhodes scholars in general. Of course they have been written to death, but every one seems eager to revive them, so why should not I? They have invaded Oxford quietly and unostentatiously, at least so far as they themselves have been concerned. Even the Americans have preserved a decorous modesty, and an unnatural quietness of demeanor. Such has been the desire of the Rhodes to identify themselves with the orthodox student body of the university, that they have endeavored to avoid all cliques, to conform to all the customs of the place just as they themselves with such clubs and societies as were already in existence. Thus though they are content in the meantime to work out their salvation along established lines, I do not for a moment think that they will lose any of their own individuality. Our reception in England has been very gratifying once and students and the public generally having manifested towards us a considerable degree of cordiality. To be sure the university authorities take some umbrage at being blessed with so large an addition to the students body as Mr. Rhodes provided, without being correspondingly being enriched with the means of educating them, but it is thought that the Rhodes trustees will come to the rescue and silence that complaint. It is already evident that this scholarship scheme has stimulated other benefactors, it being recently announced that Mr. Alfred Beit has donated to the university a sum of money for a chair of Imperial history, and for substantial prizes for essays on Imperial topics.

Imperialism is exceedingly popular these days. There are many clubs and societies throughout England, whose object is to stimulate an interest in and knowledge of the colonies. Truly their endeavors are needed, for the average Englishman, whose heritage is an empire such as the world has never seen, is woefully ignorant of the geography and history of its outlying parts. He conceives Canada as an ice-bound land where farms are given away, and over which Sir Wilfred Laurier reigns supreme. That's the extent of his knowledge of Canada. However this tiny small ignorance is being slowly dispelled and Canada is being looked to as the country which will relieve the congestion of unemployed workmen who at the present time are filling England and London particularly with their cries of distress.

To go back to the beginning, I may say that my voyage across the Atlantic was very pleasant and without incident. Landing at Liverpool I spent

ROSS BROTHERS LIMITED

ARE THE SOLE AGENTS
IN EDMONTON FOR THEMONARCH RANGE...

There is no question as to what this Range can do for its durability, as thousands and thousands of them are in use on this continent, and so far as we have been able to learn no fault has yet been found with them.

The main body of this Range is built up of sheet steel, and all the other parts that require to be cast are malleable iron. The top is ground to a bright steel finish, and is so heavy that, no matter how long or how hot you heat it, you cannot make it warp or get out of shape.

You will notice that the oven has a drop door, and the above cut illustrates the strength of this door, as any man can stand on it when it is open without straining it in the least. This will give some idea of the strength of the Stove, as all its parts are as strong as this cut of the oven door open with the salesman standing on it would convey to you.

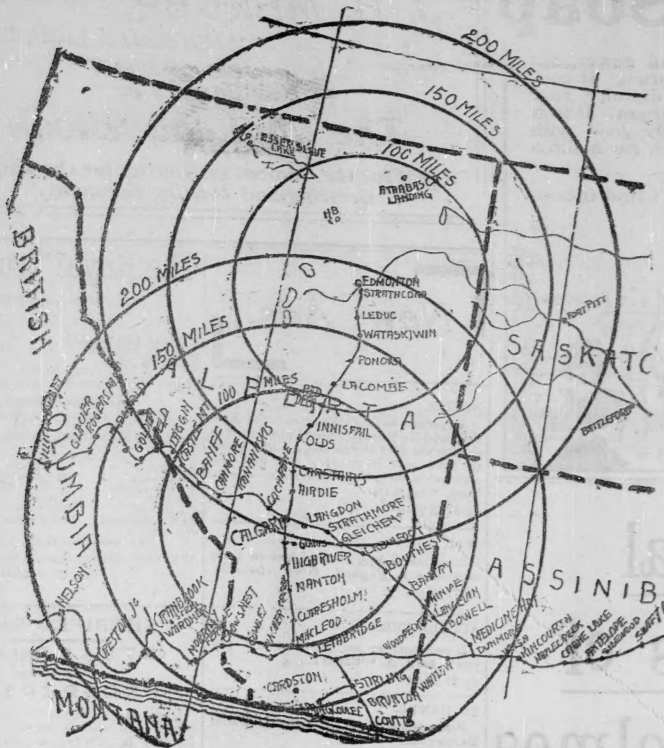

It is a wonderful baker, a very quick heater, and its water front is so constructed that it will heat water nearly twice as quick and on a much less quantity of fuel than any other Range now on the market.

The purchaser of a MONARCH RANGE insures a satisfaction that cannot be measured in dollars and cents, for at the end of ten years' use it will operate as easily and be just as good as when first started.

Remember the MONARCH when you want to purchase a Range.

AN EDMONTON MAN IN OLD ENGLAND.

a day there visiting the magnificent wharves and docks that extend for miles along the river. Among the first sounds that greeted my ear in Liverpool were the entrancing strains of a hurdy-gurdy that was playing "The Good Old Summer Time". Then followed two or three other American rag time pieces. This is but a sample of the rage for American music everybody whistles ragtime and sings Coon songs; few theatrical performances consider themselves complete without an attempt at a cake-walk, and Bill Bailey is better known than Mr. Balfour, but it is not only with their music that our neighbors have invaded England. In the cities one finds American stores where he can buy American boots and shoes, American kodaks, American breakfast foods, &c. &c. All these things combined with the numerous alliances between English nobility and American wealth, have sufficed to bring our friends of the United States right to the front in England. Coming alone from Liverpool to Oxford I had my first experience with English trains, I was surprised to find that they were very fast, a speed of sixty miles an hour being not at all uncommon and I admired the precautions taken to ensure the public safety. Their cars and baggage system seem somewhat antiquated to a Canadian and yet they have certain advantages which seem to prevent any change being made. On this journey too I saw a bit of rural England. Compared with Western Canada every detail of the landscape is on a small scale, so that the country looks like a toy land. Frequent little rivers steal about among low-browed hills, on whose crest there may be a scanty copse, and whose sides are checkered with diminutive fields. In some sequestered nook the farm-house is to be seen generally of ancient aspect and design and often with the thatched roof while in more commanding sites stands some venerable grey church like a hoary sentinel defying time and weather. Every acre of ground seems to have merited man's care in some way, and the hills, the rivers, the woods, the farms with their small fields and hedges, and the churches combine together to make a charming landscape indeed. Oxford town is not very impressive. The buildings in many parts of it show signs of acute decrepitude, and look out on narrow dirty streets that run helter skelter in every direction. The main streets viz: The High, The Broad and the Cornmarket commonly called the Corn, are the haunts of a numerous tribe of tradesmen of predatory instincts, who charge students double prices, and yet are marvelously subservient and genial within the matter of extending unlimited credit to the prodigal freshmen. Happy is the student who is on good terms with them about the time he is ready to go up for his degree. It is the colleges that make Oxford so interesting not only to students but to tourists as well. With the exception of Keble they are all stone buildings varying in age and style of architecture, but all possess some beautiful features. Although to me, coming as I did from a land where everything wears an air of youth and freshness, some of the buildings at first seemed mere grimy crumbling walls, repeated observations soon changed my opinions, and a sense of their beauty began to grow upon me.

There are twenty odd colleges in the university and each seems to have a distinct individuality. Some offer special attractions to students of a scholastic bent, others are noted for their fine football players, others for courtesies, and still others lure those who love a genial life of Saxon good cheer. All the colleges are well endowed, some being very wealthy, and it seems that fully half of the students are there by virtue of some scholarship or others. These are known as scholars; the other students are called commoners. The two classes are distinguished by the cut of their gowns, the former wearing long and the latter short gowns. The Rhodians are classified as commoners since they do not hold scholarships from a particular college.

An Oxonian lives in style and comfort, and, to use an English expression, is made to pay jolly well for it, too. Many a distracted Rhodian has sighed because his patron was so misled as to grant him only $1,500 a year. Each student has two rooms to himself, which are ready furnished, and on entering them he either buys or rents the furniture, and is generally required to deposit a sum of from £25 to £40 as a caution money. This is supposed to act as a sort of guarantee that he will keep the peace and not develop too destructive a spirit towards the articles in his room. A servant or "scout" tends to the wants of the student—keeps his rooms in order, lights his fires, calls him in the morning, brings his breakfast and luncheon to his rooms, etc., etc; in fact, he does most everything for a fellow except his studying, and in all preserves a most becoming air of solicitude and subservience. Of course he expects gratuities occasionally, but in this he does not differ from a host of people in England. Tipping is a universal practice

One must tip the porter at the railroad station, the cabby, the waiter in the restaurant, and even the barber. A traveller finds no difficulty in believing Mark Twain's story. Being on board a steamer home-bound, after a tour in Europe, he called out from the deck to those on the wharf below, "If there is a man in all England whom I have not tipped, let him step forward." And no one moved. The scout's vocabulary conforms closely to that recommended by the scriptures, but instead of saying "Yea, yes," and "Nay, nay," he constantly reiterates the words, "Yes, sir; thank you, sir."

The university authorities exercise a sort of patriarchal rule over the students as respects their activities and demeanor in public. A number of proctors and their assistants constantly prowled the streets, in the earnest endeavor to apprehend and bring to justice any one who may offend against the statutes and customs of the university. Students who are not in college by nine o'clock, when Old Tom sounds one hundred and one strokes, are fined, and if they are not in by twelve the penalty is still more serious. Such a system is somewhat distasteful to one with a Western love of liberty, and, as applied to all, I doubt that it tends to produce a strong moral character.

One need not be very long in Oxford, or indeed in any part of England, to learn of the prevalent passion for athletics. Almost every man, woman and child plays some game or other, and the effect is patent to any observer. The Englishman—I speak of the superior classes—is as a rule of fine physique, strong, active, full of courage, and with a boundless supply of endurance, almost verging on obstinacy. In their contests the students manifest an admirable spirit. They are strictly honorable and fair, and their chief regard seems to be for the game rather than the prize.

At Oxford the afternoons were entirely given up to athletics. Cricket, football, field hockey and tennis are all played in their respective seasons, and even lacrosse is securing quite a foothold. Rowing of course occupies the first place among college sports. The oarsmen's work is very hard and his training vigorous and long, but the social prestige attaching a member of the university or even the college crew leads to very keen competition for the coveted places. The Rhodians are giving a very good account of themselves in an athletic way; in fact they quite eclipse the English rivals in the freshmen's sports.

The university holds examinations three times a year, and a student may undergo his test any time he wishes, though he cannot go up to his final until he has kept residence for a certain number of terms.

Altogether life at Oxford is exceedingly pleasant and easy. The emphasis seems to be placed rather on culture and social amenities than on the acquisition of practical knowledge and the stern realities of life; and thus the system is eminently adapted to the education of those who have the dignified role of English gentleman to play in after years. Nevertheless much is to be found here that is inspiring and helpful to anyone, and I trust that in the years to come the North West Territories will continue to send her full quota of Rhodes scholars to explore the treasures of Oxford.

WILL BE NO CHANGE

IN THE SCHOOL SYSTEM

The Bishop of St. Albert says the present system will remain under autonomy.

Montreal, Feb. 15th.—Important points in connection with autonomy were touched on by Bishop Legal of St. Albert, discussing the interesting question he said:—"In the Territories we have separate schools and we get along splendidly. Different denominations never have trouble. Separate schools are the only ones to be called national. The population is Catholic and Protestant and neither can dictate to the other. A neutral system would be a Protestant school system. Commissioners, teachers and books would be Protestant. The Catholic population in the Territories is one in four, but we cannot see that any improvements can be made. If any change is made we will fight till we get separate schools, but there will be no change."

TERRITORIAL HORSE BREEDERS MEET.

A meeting of the Directors of the Territorial Horse Breeders Association was recently held at Calgary. The President J. A. Turner, occupied the chair. Secretary Peterson explained that the object of the meeting was to make final arrangements respecting the proposed Territorial Horse Fair, which the last annual meeting decided should be organized by the Association. After some discussion it was decided to hold the fair at Victoria Park, Calgary, on the 4th, 5th and 6th of April. The annual meeting will be held at 3 p. m. on the 4th of April. The date of the Fourth Annual Stallion Show, which has hitherto been held in conjunction with the May cattle sale was then considered. The consensus of opinion was that the most appropriate time for holding this event would be while the horse fair was in progress and it was finally decided to amalgamate the Fair and the Stallion Show, and also to extend the latter and organize a horse show along the same lines of that held annually in Toronto. Classes will be provided for Stallions, Draught teams, and Geldings, Agricultural teams, Driving teams, Single drivers, and Saddlers, and the foal show which proved so popular last year will be continued. Dr. Hobbs V. S. of Calgary was appointed Honorary Veterinarian.

The object of the Horse Fair is to bring buyer and seller together and all deals will be made privately in the same manner as at all live stock centres in the United States. Outside buyers are generally deterred from purchasing in the West owing to a lack of knowledge of the country and the time, trouble and expense involved in visiting the individual ranchers to make up carloads. The annual horse fair will solve this difficulty effectively and is, therefore, with the support of the breeders, bound to be a success. The fair is organized in the interest of the members of the Association and under the direct control and management of the breeders themselves, the charges will, therefore, be based on the actual cost of the venture. An entry fee of $1.00 per head will be charged and a sale fee of $2.00 for animals disposed of. A charge for hay and accommodation of twenty-five cents per head per day will also be collected. Entries for the Horse Fair and Show will close on the 20th of March. Any breeders having horses to enter may obtain forms and other information from C. W. Peterson, Secretary Live Stock Associations, Calgary.

EDMONTON'S FUTURE.

Contributed—

Edmonton is destined to become the great commercial metropolis of the west. She occupies a better position than Winnipeg as a distributing point. She is the half-way house between Winnipeg and the McKenzie basin and the Pacific coast. Away down south to the U. S. boundary line we have the Kootenay with her vast deposits of mineral wealth, and her large forests of timber. She has the largest coal fields on the continent and an oil industry which is now being developed and which produces the best sample of oil yet discovered. She also has the first beet sugar refinery in the west which has turned out millions of pounds of sugar of the finest quality. Again to the west we have the Jasper pass and the best and easiest railroad gradient yet discovered through the Rockies. The Cariboo gold mines lie west of the pass and only await the advent of a railroad to start up again with renewed vigour. The Cassear and Omenica, a rich gold bearing country with great forests of timber, again extends away up North West to the renowned K'ondike which shows gold clear through to the Arctic Sea. Then again we have the McKenzie basin which runs for nearly 2000 miles with vast deposits of asphalt, salt, oil, gas, coal and gold.

Then we can swing around in an easterly direction till we strike the Coppermine river which flows through a canyon of nearly pure copper in some parts. Now let us turn south and follow the course of the Tyrell Bros. who explored the country from Lake Athabasca to Hudson Bay. Here again we find mineral deposits extending along the whole route of travel which only awaits developing. From Hudson Bay again we can turn south down to the U. S. boundary line, and we run through a mineral bearing country with vast beds of iron ore, silver, copper, nickel, gold also millions of acres of the best forests of timber which will produce the best quality of lumber and pulp for generations yet unborn. Edmonton has vast resources swung around her in the shape of a horse shoe, while inside the shoe lies the "fertile belt," the granary and the meat market of the Empire, also the largest and best wheat growing country on the face of the globe. The far famed Saskatchewan valley again has a navigable river the Saskatchewan flowing through the centre from the Rocky mountains to Lake Winnipeg over 1000 miles in length, lined again with forests of timber and numerous seams of coal cropping out along the banks all of which will furnish cheap fuel for the millions of happy people, who will yet cultivate the soil of the great valley.

Large beds of iron ore have been found tributary to the river, and a company has been formed to develop them. We hope that the day is not far distant when these beds of iron ore will be manufactured into machinery and railroad supplies of all kinds and the money kept at home which now goes to build up the U. S. and other parts of eastern Canada.

The Saskatchewan river is navigable for some distance west of Edmonton and east to Grand Rapids, where it has cut its way through a limestone and granite ridge. Right here is one of the grandest water powers, (another one) which has been running to waste from time immemorial but will, yet be utilized within the present century. Flour mills and grain elevators will line its banks grinding and storing up the millions of bushels of the "king of cereals" grown in the "fertile belt."

Here a second Minneapolis, only larger, will yet arise. The busy hum of civilization and the foot of the iron horse will soon reverberate through this great "lone land," where today nothing is heard but the moaning howl of the timber wolf or the piercing shriek of the soaring eagle.

THREE YEARS OLD

WHEN the tobacco I have personally selected in Cuba is delivered at my factory, I begin a special treatment to still further cure it—develop its delightful aroma.

This special treatment requires two to three years, depending on the "crop."

I work it thoroughly—through various processes of fermenting and drying in specially made apparatuses that enable me to keep the tobacco in each process at certain fixed temperatures and moist or dry at such a degree of humidity—necessary to bring out the virtues I insist on in each cigar.

By having the filler so aged and treated, I make my Pharaoh a smooth, palatable smoke—one with a delicate incense-like flavor and very even combustion.

The binder and wrapper are the Connecticut Broadleaf and the imported Sumatra respectively—both tobaccos that delight the epicure.

BIG SHIRT

Made big enough for a big man to work in with comfort. Has more material in it than any other brand of shirt in Canada. Made on the H.B.K. scale it requires 39 1/4 to 42 yards per dozen, whereas common shirts have only 32 to 33 yards.

That's the reason why the H.B.K. "Big" Shirt never chafes the armpits, is never tight at the neck or wristbands, is always loose, full and comfortable and wears well.

Each shirt bears a tiny book that tells the whole history of the "Big" Shirt, and also contains a notarial declaration that the H.B.K. "Big" Shirt contains 39 1/4 to 42 yards of material per dozen.

Sold at all dealers but only with this brand—

Sargent, A. T. Cushing, C. E. Morris, Stutchbury, Mrs. Galt and Messrs Jamison and Stutchbury. Miss Clark was the excellent accompanist.

—Red Deer Advocate:—It is rumored that one of our progressive men is contemplating installing a pulp mill in Red Deer. The idea seems to be an excellent one. With the Red Deer river flowing past heretofore could be patted down at little expense from the mountains. We hope the negotiations will be successful. The town needs a few such industries to make Red Deer a very important commercial centre.

REGULAR MEETING

OF THE CITY COUNCIL LAST NIGHT.

Immigration Matters Discussed—The Coalmen Want a License.

The city council met last evening. Acting Mayor May in the chair, and Aldermen McLeod, Clark, Fraser, Boyle, Bellamy, and Griesbach present.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and adopted.

Mr. Ewing presented a petition from the coalmen, the purport of which is published in another column.

Dr. Alton addressed the council regarding wooden wire around water pipe.

C. W. Sutter asked that the immigration hall which now belongs to the city be renovated and made more attractive. A discussion followed, and the commissioners were asked to report on the matter, also regarding a suggestion to establish an immigration office in the business section of the city.

A report from P. McNaughton, engineer at the power house, recommending the acceptance of the newly installed Robb engine was received.

R. S. Kelsch reported having cancelled an order for a Watt meter for testing service meters, the cost being too great.

The Leader Times Co. of Regina returned a cheque from the city, the amount being incorrect. The solicitor was asked to look into the matter.

The finance committee were asked to consider the application of F. P. Bishop, counsel fees in the recent police investigation.

A letter from G. W. R. Almon re the renewal of the secretary's bonds, which expired on Dec. 31st, was laid on the table.

Upon request, permission was given for the transfer of T. P. Cairney's real estate license to Messrs Johnson & Boyd.
